THE TEST-DRIVE CHECKLIST

Your test-drive, the guide.

A good fit. In real life.

What to notice, try, and ask on your test drive.

SIX SIMPLE STARTING POINTS

Your everyday life.
A more useful test drive.

Start where you sit.

Give yourself a moment to get comfortable before the drive begins.

01 Find your driving position.

Adjust the seat and mirrors the way you normally drive. Notice how easily you reach the controls, see the displays, and settle into a position that feels natural.

02 Try the everyday moves.

Notice getting in and out, checking visibility, and parking. Ask for help with unfamiliar controls before trying them, and keep your attention on the road while moving.

03 Bring all your people into the picture.

Check passenger space, door openings, and storage with your normal routine in mind. If you brought everyday gear, ask to try it in the vehicle while parked.

A USEFUL WAY TO SAY IT

"On a normal Tuesday, this vehicle would need to..."

Notice. Ask. Compare.

You don't have to make up your mind before we talk about what you noticed.

04 See the features in action.

Ask for a demonstration of anything you're curious about, such as phone connectivity, seat adjustments, or cargo flexibility. Seeing it work is more useful than memorizing a feature list.

05 Tell me what you noticed.

Share what felt good and what you'd like to try or compare. If something feels unfamiliar, ask about it. A small adjustment or a different option may change the experience.

06 Look at the whole fit.

Consider comfort, capability, features, and a purchase plan that makes sense for you. No single detail has to decide the conversation; tell me how the pieces feel together.

ONE QUICK MESSAGE IS ENOUGH

If towing, child-seat fit, or another specific use matters, ask me to check the details for that vehicle. A test drive alone cannot confirm every capability.

Your test-drive notes.

Write a little. Leave a little open. We can work through it together.

VEHICLE / DATE

WHAT FELT GOOD IN MY EVERYDAY ROUTINE?

WHAT WOULD I LIKE TO TRY OR UNDERSTAND BETTER?

WHAT WOULD BE USEFUL TO COMPARE NEXT?

*You bring the questions.
I'll help you find a starting point.*
